UNIVERSITY of the THIRD AGE
The Third Age Trust
The University of the Third Age (U3A) is groups of people who have retired or are over 50 years of age and are not in gainful employment.

The U3A movement has units the length and breadth of this country as well as throughout the world.

The Third Age Trust is unique in that it is, the only Charity committed to providing educational opportunities for people at minimal cost and without the pressure of examinations.

It has a wide-reaching public liability insurance policy with extensive cover, up to £5,000,000 limit, thus protecting members from claims of negligence. It has a free legal advice service for members.

Prescot members meet the last Thursday of every month except August (most Members on holiday) and December when we have our Christmas social this is usually the second Friday. The April meeting is the AGM.

The format of the meetings is usually a report back from the members of the group activities and then an invited speaker will talk about a range of subjects from music to the arts, local council to polio, health in the community, subjects suggested by members we try to arrange.

At the moment we have a walking group, dancing, painting, eating out, day trips, gardening and the favourite of many members are the holidays, when up to 40 members go for 5 to 7 day breaks together to let their hair down, no kids or children to say "you're too old to be doing that" then that is just.
